

SENATOR PROPOSES "CEASE OF WAR"

Quotes President Wilson as Declaring That It Constitutes a "Moral Obligation More Binding Than an Obligation of Law or Contract"—Senator Borah Contends That Membership in the League of Nations Would Leave United States Open to the Call to Arms in Case of the Invasion of Any Member of the League.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 6.—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, in an address here tonight, made a vigorous attack on President Wilson's recent statement on Article X of the league of nations covenant. He declared that if this government refused to take up arms to aid a country in the league, which was invaded by an enemy, "The United States steps out discredited and dishonored, and the seeds of wars are scattered broadcast."

The president's last letter to the public infers that Article X does not interfere with congress to declare war, or not to declare war, he said. "I can conceive of but one way that congress could get out of declaring war in case of the invasion of territory of a member of the league, and that would be to violate and wholly disregard the plain terms of the treaty, and to send in peaceable campaign policies upon a very solemn occasion, that Article X constitutes a supreme moral obligation upon the part of the nation, which moral obligation he declared to be more binding than an obligation of law or contract. Congress is not an agent of the nation, and he refused to accept a solemn promise, would brand our whole people with dishonor and moral turpitude."

"Are we about to enter into some kind of a monstrous combination in which some moral obligations are to be disregarded when the exigency arises? Are we about to enter into some agreement which we are to carry out at great and untold sacrifice to our people, or refuse to carry out at the cost of national honor and national decency? Have we already reached the point in international diplomacy where we are plainly promising one thing, and planning to carry out another thing, if our own interests suggest it? Are we going into a world-wide scheme for peace behind which is the honor of the nation, and the safety of our people, and the safety of the world, and we are to be executed and executed under the dictation of treachery and duplicity?"

"If we go into this scheme and the hour comes when the United States must choose between the faithful execution of its treaty, or its shameful violation, our people will choose the path of honor, and we will be executed and executed under the dictation of treachery and duplicity."

REED SAYS WILSON PLEDGED AMERICAN MILITARY AID

Kansas City, Oct. 6.—Senator James A. Reed, in a telegram late today to United States Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, stated that President Wilson had made a statement pledging American military aid to Roumania and Serbia, in an address at the peace conference on May 31, 1919.

The senator said he did not pass the matter until December 3, 1919, when it was brought to this country by a newspaper correspondent and published in the Washington Post. The senator said the speech also appeared in full in the Congressional Record on December 4, 1919.

Senator Reed's telegram was sent in response to one from Senator Spencer asking information on the subject.

Senator Reed's telegram urged the president to produce stenographic records of his peace conference "to show just what was said."

FOX KENS HIS SECOND EXTENSIVE CAMPAIGN TODAY

AMERICAN GOLD MINING

INDUSTRY MUST HAVE RELIEF

Washington, Oct. 6.—Fear that the declining gold production in this country would make it difficult to retain the nation on a gold standard basis during a popular campaign for credit restriction, accompanied by declining prices, was expressed in a formal statement issued today by Chairman McFadden of the House Banking Committee.

Mr. McFadden is the author of a bill pending before congress under which a tax of $10 an ounce would be levied on gold used in the industrial arts. The tax in turn would be paid to producers to stimulate their efforts. In his statement Mr. McFadden declared that unless some action was taken, the American gold mining industry would be compelled to shut down soon because the legal price of $350.00 an ounce would be less than current production costs.

"The continued depletion of the gold stock by exportation and industrial use would result in a serious loss of confidence in the nation's financial and currency unless a normal gold output is insured."

The United States mint sold for industrial consumption during 1919 nearly $22,000,000 more gold than was produced from the mines of the United States. While this year's output of gold is estimated at $200,000,000, the monetary stock will probably be $400,000,000. Since the industrial consumers of gold are the only ones in the country receiving the full benefit of the pre-war price, it is evident that they are being heavily subsidized."

Although no speech and no formal reception were planned, the candidate did not escape popular attention. A crowd at the railway station cheered him as he emerged from his private car late in the afternoon and another throng was gathered about his hotel here.

Earlier in the day, during his trip here from Marion, he had been greeted by a group of men and women at several Ohio and Indiana cities and had made speeches at Lima, Ohio, Decatur, Indiana, Crown Point and Hammond, Indiana, touching on numerous issues of the campaign.

Leaving late tonight, the senator will make his first prepared speech of his trip at Des Moines tomorrow morning. A pronouncement on the league of nations, probably embodying a reply to recent democratic utterances, will be the principal theme of his address.

While in Chicago Senator Harding occupied rooms at the same hotel which was his headquarters at the time of the conference here. He was accompanied by Mrs. Harding, in private there as the guest of Senator Harry S. New, chairman of the republican speakers' bureau, and it is understood that among other things the question of the speaking dates in the east for late October were discussed at the conference. Harry M. Daugherty, senator's pre-convention manager, was among those present.

The candidate's train is due at Des Moines at 10 o'clock tomorrow and he will spend two hours in conference with local republican leaders before he makes his speech at 7 o'clock.

While in the judgment of the committee, the report said, the law has been made much more complicated and more difficult to understand. Holdup Man Held as a Bomb Suspect

New York, Oct. 6.—An Italian said by the police to be a widely known radical, was arrested late today by the bomb squad and taken to headquarters to be questioned regarding any knowledge he might have of the Wall Street explosion last month.

Ciacomo Caruso, an Italian, Widely Known as a Radical—Holdup Was in Connecticut

The prisoner was booked as Ciacomo Caruso and was charged with having a loaded pistol. Two bags of powder, a quantity of radical pamphlets were found in his room.

Police officials declared that Caruso had been connected with radical activities. They said he was arrested in Connecticut on the day of a holdup in which he was alleged to have participated. According to police, victims of the robbery from Waterbury, Conn., who were arrested September 23, identified the man.

The third, Charles Fasulo a barber, was charged with having explosives in his possession. Two bags of powder were found in his barber shop, the police alleged.

A charge against Caruso was changed to robbery after he was identified by victims of the holdup.

Police and department of justice officials said they were all of the men concerning any knowledge they might have of the Wall Street explosion. The authorities declared Caruso served time in the reformatory at Rahway, N. J., as the result of a robbery of a bank in his home in Jersey City in 1917.

After examining him, officials said he was a member of the "Breath" anarchist group, a friend of Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, who were deported to Russia. William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, said tonight that Caruso is known to have been associated at various times with the anarchist group of anarchists, who, federal investigators believe, may have some knowledge of the Wall Street explosion.

The charges against Caruso will be questioned as to any information he may possess of the bombs mailed last year in an hour after the explosion. The bombs were discovered by a postal clerk.
